I do not expect you to delve into the day-day activities of the company, but instead, to focus on reviewing systems and implementing policies that will enhance operations, improve the working environment for both staff and tenants, and minimize risks to the company and Ministry.”

The Honourable Minister added, “Your decisions must be in alignment with government policies and best practices, and they should be guided by robust performance management systems. Keep in mind that the majority of your clientele are from lower income backgrounds. It is imperative that you design programmes that will help these individuals and their businesses not only to survive but thrive, benefiting the entire country.”

Minister Adrian Leonce, Minister in the Ministry, also praised the efforts of the last board and congratulated the new members. He said, “Ensure that the government policies are carried out to ensure that everyone gets their chance. Minister Leonce said, the vision and mandate for the POSSCL will be expanded and new members will be tasked with that responsibility. He urged the POSSCL to strengthen and build their marketing strategies and keep the focus to grow POSSCL into a premier entity.”

Also delivering brief remarks was returning Chairman Montgomery Guy, who said, “The recent MOU signing with NEDCO to provide training in business development for tenants of the mall, was the real motivation and indeed the performance measure for the POSSCL.
